Staff Highlight Nate Whittaker, Coach

Nathan Whittaker is an ordained pastor currently serving in Seattle, WA. He received his BA in history at Ohio State and is currently working on his doctorate, focusing on the question, "What if we worshiped as if the gospel were for the other?" As a coach for Preparing for Amazement, Nate helps churches grow healthier by leaning on his experiences in a previously challenging church environment. He also guides people in their self-discovery and self-health journeys through an exploration of the Enneagram. Ultimately, however, he has a passion to pursue justice for people on the edges of the Church and the world. He does this through his work advocating for BIPOC individuals and communities by elevating their voices and combating prejudice. Beyond his professional life, Nate is a father to two wonderful elementary-aged girls and husband to his amazing wife.
